Robert Greene Sands to Give Presentation on Historical Preservation, Serving Veterans and Community Sustainability

News Date: June 13, 2017

Pamlico Rose Institute for Sustainable Communities CEO Robert Greene Sands will give a presentation on developing community sustainability by serving Veteran populations through historic preservation. The presentation will be June 28 at the North Carolina Estuarium located in Washington, NC

Washington, NC – June 3, 2017 Robert Greene Sands, PhD, CEO of Pamlico Rose Institute for Sustainable Communities (PRISC), a North Carolina non-profit, will give a presentation on how projects such as their recently started Rose Haven reintegration home for female Veterans, coupled with historic preservation, can help grow community. Sands' presentation is entitled: "Supporting Veterans through Historical Preservation: Building Community and Social Resilience."

PRISC has embarked on preservation projects while developing innovative programs that will help facilitate recovery and integration of disabled Veterans into communities like Washington, NC. Sands will offer experience and expertise resident in PRISC to explore their two missions of historic preservation and building resilience can grow a stronger community. There will be a "social" get together with soft drinks and deserts from 7:00 PM to 7:30 PM with Sands' presentation immediately following. A question and answer will end the evening.

For more information on the presentation and location or PRISC contact Chase Taylor, Community Engagement and Research Associate at chase@pamlicorose.org or Robert Greene Sands at robert@pamlicorose.org (805-320-2967).
